

They say legends are just stories of gods and goddesses

They're built on a single act of the hero.

Legends are passed on through generations.

Some think they're myths, but those who bear witness know a legend is so much more than a folktale.

Sometimes it's a true story of love and growth.

Sometimes it's a real father and a daughter who revolutionized a sport.

Sometimes it's a bond that's come together to inspire and change lives.

Sometimes it's a platform to act as a mouthpiece for those who struggle to be heard.

Sometimes it's the validation and reassurance after pouring your heart into your passions.

Sometimes it's the little things that become the bigger picture.

The Gods and Goddesses can make us hear, but the Legends make us listen.

There is a reason a Legend is both a person and a story.

Live like a Legend so yours can be one.
